A hand is shown painting a white ceramic plate with red paint splatters. The plate is placed on a dark, speckled surface. To the left of the plate is a white container holding several brushes. To the right is a small white bowl filled with red paint. A hand is holding a brush with a blue handle and a silver ferrule, dipping it into the red paint. The brush has a wide, flat head. The hand is positioned to the right of the plate, and the brush is being used to create red splatters on the white surface of the plate. The splatters are of various sizes and are scattered across the top half of the plate. The background is a dark, speckled surface, possibly a workbench or a table. The overall scene is a close-up of the painting process.
